

Master and Apprentice Z1R Battle Royale

This document outlines the structure and flagsets for a six-week, eight seed, non-elimination, asynchronous Zelda 1 Randomizer (Z1R) battle royale (BR) centered around the concept of a veteran (master) player mentoring a novice (apprentice) player. The rationale for running this battle royale is three-fold:

- To learn the basics components of Z1R from an experienced runner
- To encourage tournament, future BRs and casual race participation.
- Help educate inexperienced runners who may be considering participation in the forthcoming Rookie Rumble tournament..

Signing up:

Please use a unique emote that is shared by both the master and apprentice. This allows us to track who is signed up, who has a mentor and who still needs one.

Tournament Structure

The structure for this BR will be unique compared to most other BRs in that it will pair players at different skill levels while focusing on solo play. It will provide a progressive flagset which introduces novice players to new flags each week, providing early advantages to novice players and slowly progressing toward more challenging levels of play.

Veteran players will provide mentoring to their paired novice in their preferred manner, including but not limited to pre-seed instruction, in-seed voice or text coaching, and/or post-seed review and analysis. Those veteran players opting into live coaching during a novice player's weekly seed run are highly encouraged to self-meter their guidance and ensure they are not simply dictating the novice's every move. Please no tracker sharing. The apprentice should do all tracking, this is part of the learning process!

Apprentices will receive Mario Kart-style points for their finishes. High-placing BR participants may receive ultima points as determined by usual BR rules. While these points will be awarded, the goal here is to learn how to play Z1R. New for 2026: Mentors will also receive BR points based on the performance of their apprentice.

MK scoring at 20 participants will be:

1st place	28	5th	18
2nd place	25	6th	16
3rd place	22	7th	14
4th place	20	8th	13

9th through last place will decrease by one point, with last place receiving 1 point. If we drop to 19 participants, points would be reduced by one (27, 24, 21, etc)

Please note - the goal here is not to directly prepare for the Rookie Rumble flags. I don't even know what those flags will be at this time! This isn't an SAT-prep type course where you study the exam. We are trying to teach runners how to play and if they choose to participate in the next Rookie Rumble, they will have a decent foundation as they begin their tourney journey.

Master/Apprentice Designations

Delineating veteran and novice players is, of course, somewhat subjective. There are plenty of skillful newer players as well as years-long community members who play more casually. For the purposes of this BR, we will largely be allowing players to self-identify as Apprentice or Master level, subject to admin approval. Please keep in mind that this BR is oriented toward introducing new/newer players to progressively more challenging Z1R flags when self-selecting.

Note: If you feel you are somewhere between Master and Apprentice level, you should consider offering to coach as you likely have more experience than newer Z1R racers.

Apprentice criteria:

- Never participated in a Z1R tournament or past Master/Apprentice BR as an apprentice.
- ELO ranking (Racetime Beat the Game) cannot exceed 1,500 and/or more than 50 lifetime races.

If anyone interested in participating fails this criteria, please let us know and we will evaluate, as needed.

Master/Apprentice Pairing Methodology

This BR will employ bring-your-own-partner pairing, where a qualified Master and Apprentice player would sign up for the BR as a pair at the same time. Unpaired players may use the BR signup to express interest and availability, but tournament admins will not provide any official matchmaking.

We will be capping the participation at 12 apprentices until we have secured 12 masters. Anyone who signs up after the initial 12 will go onto a waitlist and subsequently be added into the BR until a master is secured. This will prevent a situation where we have an imbalance of participants trying to find a vet.

Duration:

Beginning on April 19th, 2026 - six weeks of different flagsets progressing in difficulty. Weeks five and six will contain two seeds each. Week six seeds will be run without active coaching.

Flagsets

Weekly flagsets will be built around a progressive introduction of interesting and challenging flags for the novice players. Seeds will be revealed at the start of each week.
